MARCH 2017

From the Pastor:

On March 1st, we will observe the solemn day of Ash Wednesday and again begin the penitential season of Lent. During this season, we confess our sin and guilt and throw ourselves entirely upon the mercy and love of God which we behold in the cross of Jesus.

When Martin Luther was a young monk, he felt tortured by his sense of sin. No matter how hard he tried to follow the monastic discipline, he never felt an assurance that God loved him and would be gracious and merciful. His Father Confessor, Johann von Staupitz, saw Luther's plight, and advised him to "look to the wounds of Jesus on the cross" in order to find a compassionate and forgiving God. Indeed, it is in the vision of Jesus dying for us upon the cross that we truly behold the love of God in its most perfect form.

In 1519, Luther wrote a short devotional tract, "A Meditation on Christ's Passion," as a Lenten devotion for the members of his Church. In this passage, Luther elaborates on the words of wisdom he received from Staupitz:

"You must no longer contemplate the suffering of Christ (for this has already done its work and terrified you), but pass beyond that and see his friendly heart and how this heart beats with such love for you that it impels him to bear with pain your conscience and your sin. Then your heart will be filled with love for him, and the confidence of your faith will be strengthened. Now continue and rise beyond Christ's heart to God's heart and you will see that Christ would not have shown this love for you if God in God's eternal love had not wanted this, for Christ's love for you is due to his obedience to God.

Thus you will find the divine and kind paternal heart, and, as Christ says, you will be drawn to the Father through him. Then you will understand the words of Christ, "For God so loved the world that God gave God's only Son, so that everyone who believes in him may not perish but may have eternal life." We know God correctly when we grasp God not in God's power or wisdom (for then God proves terrifying), but in God's kindness and love. Then faith and confidence are able to exist, and then we are truly born anew in God"

During this season of Lent, we do well to follow Luther's guidance and focus our thoughts on the incredible love of God which we receive through the cross of Jesus, our Savior.

Yours in Christ, Pastor Richard
